About Us

The Judicial Council on Diversity & Inclusion

The Judicial Council on Diversity & Inclusion (JCDI) engages in consultation with the community and develops and provides advice on court protocols, best practice guidelines, and tools for responding to cultural and linguistic diversity-related matters. Issues relating to diversity and inclusion encompass people and communities who experience social exclusion and disadvantage, including but not limited to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, migrants and refugees, people with disabilities, LGBTQI+ people, women, and older Australians.

The JCDI's purpose is to develop a framework to support procedural fairness and equality of treatment for all court and tribunal users – regardless of their race, colour, religion, or national or ethnic origin – and to promote public trust and confidence in Australian courts and the judiciary. The JCDI is auspiced by The Social Policy Group.

JCDI Training Format

We provide fit-for-purpose training sessions in a range of formats and lengths depending on the needs and availability of your organisation.
